THE RECORD IN THE BRAIN. Extraordinary Instances of Word Blindness and Word Deafness. All persons are consciously and unconsciously molding in their brain cells records innumerable. Things that we reck not of leave their impress there; stamp comes upon stamp like the various writings in an old palimpsest, in which the lower writings seem entirely obliterated until they are revealed by the processes of the antiquarian. So when the vision of the higher centers is sharpest it can see through the maze, and it may in a moment decipher the records of a life-time; or when the restaining influence of the higher centers has been re-

Cabby Found Asleep.

A somnolent cabman was enjoying a comfortable nap on his box, in the Rue de Metz when an enterprising person came along, cut the reins, unharnessed the steed of the sleeping Jehu, mounted the animal and tried to gallop it up the Faubourg Saint Martin. The nag. however, was almost as sleepy as its master, and refused to proceed at a pace fast enough to enable the street brigand to get away.

The cabman having been aroused from his slumbers by a good Samaritan who had observed the thief, rubbed his eyes and tried to ornament his features with a feeble smile, which was accompanied by a muttered malediction. At length, deeming energy imperatively necessary, cabby seized peratively necessary, cabby seized his whip and proceeded briskly after the disappearing annexer of nags, who was ultimately conducted to a police region where he treated the advenstation, where he treated the adventure as a pure joke. This species of horse play was, however, neither rel-CAEAP AS THE CHEAPEST ished by the victimized cabman nor by the police, who sent the theif to the lock up.-London Telegraph.
